23 Week Seasonal Plan

I have been documenting this 23 week season for years and tweaking it as needed based on new ideas and the abilities of my swimmers. The daily yardage amount on the 23 week plan can be tailored to your needs based on the time you want to train. This program can be adapted to swimming 2-3 or up to 6 times a week, with any yardage amount you desire to swim. The important thing is to follow the regime and do all that is planned. The beginning of this program assumes that you are starting your season and eases you into practices while developing your aerobic base. The mid-season, weeks 8-16 are the core that include the main work-load of aerobic swimming while introducing speed. The last seven weeks will develop and fine tune your speed and power, while maintaining your aerobic base. The full program will enable you to swim multiple championship meets several weeks in a row while continuing to improve your times. If you only have one championship meet we can adjust work-outs to hit your peak. The weight lifting and dryland programs follow suit to the seasonal plan and are essential to speed and power. I am available for any questions to help you and I encourage them so please contact me through www.FasterSwimming.com/contact.shtm

Below I have included some tips for practices. Sign up for our free newsletters for more tips through www.fasterswimming.com.

PRACTICE TECHNIQUES

1. Racing – The drive to win close races to recover from mistakes and overtake your competition, the desire to win!!!! Some swimmers have that desire and others must be taught. You must add racing sets in your workout. Each swimmer must have the ability to start and stop speed (variable speed) throughout the season, no matter what phase of training you are currently involved. Drafting then passing, stagger starts and racing different abilities of swimmers in practice must be some part of a weekly routine.
2. Race Pace – This isn't sprinting to exhaustion but creating the speed that will be needed to achieve goal times for each event. Let's take the 100 free for our example: let's say your goal is to swim a 48.00 in the 100. In order to achieve this swim we must create and instill muscle memory at this speed. You will need to maintain 12.00 while swimming 25's and 24.00 speed while doing 50's. You can eventually work up to 75's and broken 100's (breaking them at different distances) and finally a 100 from the block before you actually swim your big race. This will give you the confidence needed for the big race. Start the season with enough rest at each desired distance to achieve race pace goal speed and as the season continues lessen the rest interval and achieve the same result. If you are tired on a given day that you want to do race pace then you must give yourself enough rest to achieve race pace. This doesn't have to be the main set but just the last 10 minutes of a desired workout. Please remember to do race pace during the aerobic phase of the season and during holiday training. Race pace develops muscle memory and helps create speed and power.

Remember that your dryland program is important and must coincide with this type of training. You will do more race pace as the taper progresses. Recovery and overspeed sets are as important and must be incorporated with race pace. Training with speed and power in the water and during dryland will enhance everything you are trying to achieve in your program.

3. Overspeed – Creating and enhancing muscle memory with the possible speed of a time not yet achieved in a race. Creating speed in short spurts helps train the fast twitch muscle make-up of every swimmer. Cords are a wide spread example usually incorporated during the taper or resting phase of a season and should be used throughout. Overspeed can be achieved off starts and walls and during very short distances or with correct tarzan swimming.
4. Tarzan for speed purposes – Swimmers that do water polo use tarzan to see the ball. They are strong, have arm speed, upper body strength and usually are great at kicking. Wow, everything you need for sprinting! Sprinting doesn't always mean short distances. 200's are now in the sprint category. If you have ever seen Diana Munz swim she has great kicking skills that were evident in her swims off each wall and at the end of distance events. She shows variable speed and power in the distance events with her upper body and legs.....
5. Recovery and dryland – These two categories make most people nervous. Proper recovery must be part of each workout phase and the dryland program must match. You must constantly change body part emphasis in your workouts to ensure recovery. Hard work should alternate legs, core and upper body. That doesn't mean if you are recovering the legs you can't work the arms. You need to alternate upper and lower body between dryland and swimming. You can alternate within each set, from set to set, from workout to workout or week to week. Add a true recovery workout once during the week and see how you respond the next day. Maybe you even need a day off as in MENTAL RECOVERY.
6. Each set should include distances as well as the repetitions, mechanics emphasis, and what to do on each part of the swim. For example: 6 X 400's on 5:00 free with 4 fly kicks off each wall breathing to one side of the pool, to insure breathing on both sides and even shoulder rotation. Odd swims are variable speed 75% - 95% by 50, with numbers 2 and 4 pace holding 1:02 and number 6 being timed with sprint kicking each wall and last 200. Write it down and take it to the pool.

7. You must be able to read the clock and understand negative, even, ascending, and pace terminology for splits in races and practice. Swimmers should constantly be using the clock even during warm-up and warm-downs so times and speed can be inherent. You must understand a certain speed with feel. You must understand and learn variable speed and repeats of a certain pace physically and mentally. Simple example during warm-up 4 X 200's with descending send-offs with a goal time on the last 200. For example, 4 X 200's on 2:40, 2:30, 2:20 and the last one go a 2:15.
8. Coaches flexibility: Stay flexible and evaluate if the swimmers are getting what you wanted out of each set. Don't force the issue if motivation isn't the issue. Change the set to achieve your goal, scratch the set if needed, adjust it or use it later in the season. If you change the set explain why and try to get them to understand the reason. If you can't explain it you'll never be able to teach it. If too much info is written for the set slowly increase the stimulus over time. Flexibility is hard as a coach feels the time constraint to get it all in. Fight that urge and back up, as that will help the swimmers more in the short and long term.
9. IM (Individual medley) and the importance of doing sets in IM order. Training the muscle memory of going from one stroke to the other and breathing patterns. Breathing patterns change from one stroke to the other, as does the timing of each stroke. When switching strokes the swimmer must gain control of the breathing pattern before settling into the race strategy of each stroke. Doing sets in IM order will help train the breathing patterns.
10. Heart rate is a great tool to see if you are sick, stressed, over worked, need more rest or just out of shape. You can measure this many ways by creating a set that helps you maximize heart rate and measuring how long it takes you to recover. Remember you are not a doctor nor should you diagnose yourself from this, it is only a tool that can be used to help you at each phase of training. This tells you about aerobic conditioning, fatigue during the core of training and the amount of resting needed to create race pace or sprinting. This tool definitely helps during taper and resting before meets. Consult a doctor or read up about heart rate, as there are plenty of studies and information on the subject. This will help you with flexibility and changing your workouts when needed.

SEASONAL PLAN PRE TAPER AND TAPER

ASSUMPTIONS:

1. Weight lifting program has been implemented.
 2. Dryland/Yoga regime in place.
 3. Aerobic yardage is appropriate and skill level is adequate.
 4. Stretching is a regular part of the daily workout.
 5. Nutrition, recovery and sleep are understood by the coach and swimmer.
- The seasonal plans were used by National Level and High School State and District Qualifiers. Everything can and should be adjusted accordingly.
Please e-mail me with questions and all can be customized for Summer League through Masters.

RESTING AND TAPERING:

Tapering is usually a longer process and is a season end tool to fully rest a swimmer for championships (last 7 weeks). Resting can be just to give swimmers a chance to recover for an upcoming meet and can be for one day or an extended period but always less than a full taper. The taper is a tool and not a magic pill as you still have to swim your heart out at the meet. Only you know how much effort you actually gave in any given race.

USE OF SWIMMING EQUIPMENT: (just don't abuse or rely on any swim aids)

Fins and zoomers have purposes and will help swimmers who can't extend their feet (point toes) or need to work on flexibility. They will help the younger and weaker swimmers work on mechanics of all strokes except breaststroke.

Paddles come in all sizes and can help isolate shoulders and aid in proper mechanical swimming. Choose the size appropriate for the strength of the swimmer and move up to larger paddles slowly. Don't overuse.

Pull buoys can be used to eliminate legs from the set and to learn how to control rotation and mechanical errors.

Kick boards can be used to isolate legs and work just on kicking. Board sizes will help work on specific purposes of kicking and some allow you to do flip turns easily.

WEEK ONE FOCUS - SWIM

Workout requirements:

1. Start with one fly kick off every wall (except breast – one required).
2. Emphasize correct spikes (streamline).

What we are trying to achieve throughout the week:

1. Sets with stroke count as the emphasis..
2. +/- 4,500 yardage daily. Don't get wrapped up in this as it is only a guideline and I'd rather you attempt achieve all the sets just reduce the yardage.
3. 50% kicking
4. Variable speed in either kicking and/or swimming.
5. Alternating either upper body with lower body by set or within set. Try to change this daily.
6. Spend some time on starts, turns and finishes daily to some capacity.

WEEK ONE FOCUS - DRYLAND

Dryland Training 1 – coinciding with Week 1 Faster Swimming Weekly Workouts

Weekly points:

- Dryland workouts should follow swim practice or be separated by 4+ hours
- Separate these workouts by at least one day
- End all sets at indicated times – if you don't reach a number goal don't worry, just keep working towards these goals
- Basic strength and energy-system work
- If sore from dryland, include extra stretching at the end of any workout

WEEK TWO FOCUS - SWIM

Workout requirements:

1. Start with one fly kick off every wall (except breast – one required).
2. Emphasize correct spikes (streamline).

What we are trying to achieve throughout the week:

1. Sets with stroke count as the emphasis..
2. +/- 4,500 yardage daily. Don't get wrapped up in this as it is only a guideline and I'd rather you attempt achieve all the sets just reduce the yardage.
3. 50% kicking
4. Variable speed in either kicking and/or swimming.
5. Alternating either upper body with lower body by set or within set. Try to change this daily.
6. Spend some time on starts, turns and finishes daily to some capacity.

WEEK THREE FOCUS - SWIM

Workout requirements:

1. Two – Three fly kicks off walls (except breast – one required)
2. No breathing off walls

What we are trying to achieve throughout the week:

1. Sets with stroke count as the emphasis..
2. Racing and Overspeed.
3. +/- 6,000 yardage daily. Don't get wrapped up in this as it is only a guideline and I'd rather you attempt achieve all the sets just reduce the yardage.
4. 30% kicking and 10% race pace work.
5. Variable speed in either kicking and/or swimming.
6. Alternating either upper body with lower body by set or within set. Try to change this daily.
7. Spend some time on starts, turns and finishes daily to some capacity.
8. Introduce paddles in the work-outs.

WEEK SEVEN FOCUS - SWIM

This weeks practices give you a basic outline to follow previous to competition. I will start with this basic plan but adjust based on how the swimmers do this week in practice.

My team will be completing all workouts except Day #35. When we return from our meet there will be a recovery practice(dryland only) and then we will resume the daily workout regime. I will make adjustments to the the daily workouts based on how they perform. I expect smart races at this meet and the swimmers to swim near their best times from last year championships with best times in other events. Workouts this week are designed to give the swimmers a bit of a break, some resting and development of speed and power. Dryland will be adjusted slightly with less emphasis on legs, more stretching and reactions speed drills.

Week seven practice requirements:

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort

This weeks focus:

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Approximately 6,500 yard average, adjust with ability. Workout # 31 and #35 only.
4. 40% kicking.
5. 10% race pace.
6. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
7. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
8. Paddle sets.
9. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
10. Variable speed work.

WEEK EIGHT FOCUS - SWIM

I was happy with the results this weekend at IUPUI in Indianapolis, IN. I am reducing yardage and tweeking kicking and race pace work. If you wish to keep the yardage at week eight levels just add a few swims or repeat a set or two. I am slowly raising yardage again per the 23 week program. The most important thing to remember is the quality of the workout maintaining speed and power.

Week eight practice requirements:

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort

This weeks focus:

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Approximately 5,500-6,000 yard average, adjust with ability.
4. 30% kicking.
5. 20% race pace.
6. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
7. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
8. Paddle sets.
9. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
10. Variable speed work.

SWIM | WEEK 14 (WORKOUT 1)

Day #66

Let's administer test sets while maintaining yardage goals for the week. Work in as you see fit but try to complete during the week.

The test sets are to establish repeat pace per 100's on all strokes to help the swimmer and coach adjust send offs for the Holiday training demands.

The following warm up is a great set pattern for swimmers to learn and complete at meets. Adjust at meets based on time and warm up facilities offered.

Warm up:

600 choice swim

6 x 100 choice 50 kick / 50 swim :10rest
then stretch based on time allowed no longer than 5 minutes

6 x 75 choice :10rest with heart rate about +/-20 at a minimum, check twice adjust heart rate based on age and level of fitness
1-3 kick / swim / kick by 25, 4-6 swim / kick / swim by 25

6 x 50 choice swim – raise heart rate, check heart rate and then :15rest
1-3 heart rate +/-25, 4 easy swim, 5-6 heart rate +/-30

100 easy

2 x 25 sprint (work in starts at meet)

75 easy after each

Total warm up yardage = 2,250

Some swimmers need more and some less based on your demands for the day and learning to read your body. Don't do less just because. Remember to simulate practices where you have great sprint swims at the end with 5,000 or more yards to warm up.....

Don't let more than 5-7 minutes elapse before starting test sets. This would also be the ideal time period between warm up and your events at meets.

Do the below set for all strokes except butterfly unless you or your swimmer is the exception. Most swimmers are too weak mechanically to complete this set fly. The fasterswimming work outs are designed to train fly at race pace mainly alternating upper and lower body while focusing on timing and mechanics.

Goals for set:

You need to be able to repeat your pace with your heart rate +/- 25 (this is for the national level swimmer, please adjust accordingly). Check your heart rate only a few times at the beginning of the set to establish speed. Your initial rest will be :05 seconds between swims developing a send off with the same amount of rest. Adjust send offs either faster or slower as needed. This should not be at a comfortable pace but on the challenging side with heart rate appropriate while holding pace thru set. Read set and start with a goal pace in mind.

Record your results (pace per 100) and use for setting send offs for the upcoming weeks.

4 x 100 start setting pace and establishing heart rate

8 x 25 this will be the easiest part, use to establish heart rate

6 x 50

4 x 100

2 x 200

recovery swim of 6 x 75 on +/- 1:15

set yardage = 2,150 for each stroke

Total yardage not including if you did the set fly = 8,700

GOOD LUCK !

SWIM | WEEK 14 (WORKOUT 2)

Day #67

Test set day number two. Same warm up as yesterday.

Warm up:

600 choice swim

6 x 100 choice 50 kick / 50 swim :10rest
then stretch based on time allowed no longer than 5 minutes

6 x 75 choice :10rest with heart rate about +/-20 at a minimum, check twice
adjust heart rate based on age and level of fitness
1-3 kick / swim / kick by 25, 4-6 swim / kick / swim by 25

6 x 50 choice swim – raise heart rate, check heart rate and then :15rest
1-3 heart rate +/-25, 4 easy swim, 5-6 heart rate +/-30

100 easy

2 x 25 sprint (work in starts at meet)

75 easy after each

Same goals as yesterday except we are establishing repeat 100 pace for kicking as well as sprinting. Do this for all four strokes.

Kick test set

4 x 50 check heart rate twice to establish speed

50 easy kick

6 x 100 hold or adjust send off with no more than :05rest

50 easy swim

Total yardage each stroke = 1,300 totalling 5,200

Work in testing sprint kicks of each stroke:

1 x 100 timed kick

1 x 50 timed kick

warm down or stretch as needed between and after sprints

Total yardage for all four strokes = +/- 600

Swim test set. You may do this for all four strokes but do for at least top stroke.
Block sprints of 100's

5 x 100 top stroke sprint from block on 5:00 by heat and have a warm down lane available so they/you can stretch and warm

down as needed within the 5 minute send off

warm down as needed

Total yardage = 8,000 – 9,500

WEEK FOURTEEN FOCUS - DRYLAND

Dryland Training 14 – coinciding with Week 14 Faster Swimming Weekly Workouts

Weekly points:

- Dryland workouts should follow swim practice or be separated by 4+ hours
- Separate these workouts by at least one day
- End all sets at indicated times – if you don't reach a number goal don't worry, just keep working towards these goals
- Basic strength and energy-system work
- If sore from dryland, include extra stretching at the end of any workout

WEEK FIFTEEN FOCUS - SWIM

Week fifteen practice requirements:

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort
4. RP stands for race pace
5. VS stands for variable speed
6. inc stk cnt stands for incremental stroke count
7. FIP stands for fastest interval(send off) possible
8. _ up Tarzan _down easy stands for _ strokes up sprint Tarzan then _ strokes down easy freestyle, the underscore is for variable patterns of strokes
9. Remember to adjust all send offs and rest intervals based on your ability

This weeks focus:

The goal of 10,000 yards is not for everyone and only those that can physically and mentally handle the workload. If you need to, alternate upper and lower body thru the sets as your body tells you. Try to end every day with some speed work followed by a long enough warm down to feel better. You may split this up with doubles. Please adjust accordingly.

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Approximately 10,000 yard average for mid-distance oriented swimmers with 10% kicking and 10% race pace work minimum
4. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
5. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
6. Paddle sets.
7. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
8. Variable speed work.

WEEK FIFTEEN FOCUS - DRYLAND

Dryland raining 15 - coinciding with Week 15 Faster Swimming Weekly Workouts

Weekly points:

- Dryland workouts should follow swim practice or be separated by 4+ hours
- Separate these workouts by at least one day
- End all sets at indicated times – if you don't reach a number goal don't worry, just keep working towards these goals
- Basic strength and energy-system work
- If sore from dryland, include extra stretching at the end of any workout

WEEK SIXTEEN FOCUS - SWIM

Week sixteen practice requirements:

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort
4. RP stands for race pace
5. VS stands for variable speed
6. inc stk cnt stands for incremental stroke count
7. FIP stands for fastest interval(send off) possible
8. _ up Tarzan _down easy stands for _ strokes up sprint Tarzan then _ strokes down easy freestyle, the underscore is for variable patterns of strokes
9. Remember to adjust all send offs and rest intervals based on your ability

This weeks focus:

The goal of 10,000 yards is not for everyone and only those that can physically and mentally handle the workload. If you need to, alternate upper and lower body thru the sets as your body tells you. Try to end every day with some speed work followed by a long enough warm down to feel better. You may split this up with doubles. Please adjust accordingly.

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Approximately 10,000 yard average for mid-distance oriented swimmers with 10% kicking and 10% race pace work minimum
4. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
5. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
6. Paddle sets.
7. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
8. Variable speed work.

WEEK SEVENTEEN FOCUS - DRYLAND

Dryland Training 17 – coinciding with Week 17 Faster Swimming Weekly Workouts

Weekly points:

- Dryland workouts should follow swim practice or be separated by 4+ hours
- Separate these workouts by at least one day
- End all sets at indicated times – if you don't reach a number goal don't worry, just keep working towards these goals
- Basic strength and energy-system work
- If sore from dryland, include extra stretching at the end of any workout

(WEEK TWO TAPER)
WEEK EIGHTEEN FOCUS - SWIM

Week TWO OF SEVEN WEEK TAPER practice requirements:

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort
4. RP stands for race pace
5. VS stands for variable speed
6. inc stk cnt stands for incremental stroke count
7. FIP stands for fastest interval(send off) possible
8. _ up Tarzan _down easy stands for _ strokes up sprint Tarzan then _ strokes down easy freestyle, the underscore is for variable patterns of strokes
9. Remember to adjust all send offs and rest intervals based on your ability

This weeks focus:

SWIM | WEEK 18 (WORKOUT 1)

Day #86

Let's administer test sets again maintaining yardage goals for the week. The yardage requirements are obviously less this week so if you need to work it in for a third day. Work in as you see fit but try to complete during the week.

Hopefully you have completed all the work this season. The results of the next two-three days of test sets will help you determine if you need to incorporate more recovery swimming into your workouts. Discuss with your coach or email me the results of the previous test sets(day #66 and #67) with this week's and I'll be glad to guide you through the next few weeks before championships. brad@fasterswimming.com

The test sets are to establish repeat pace per 100's on all strokes to help the swimmer and coach adjust send offs from the Holiday training demands and tweek the 7 week taper.

The following warm up is a great set pattern for swimmers to learn and complete at meets. Adjust at meets based on time and warm up facilities offered.

Warm up:

600 choice swim

6 x 100 choice 50 kick / 50 swim :10rest
then stretch based on time allowed no longer than 5 minutes

6 x 75 choice :10rest with heart rate about +/-20 at a minimum, check twice
adjust heart rate based on age and level of fitness
1-3 kick / swim / kick by 25, 4-6 swim / kick / swim by 25

6 x 50 choice swim – raise heart rate, check heart rate and then :15rest
1-3 heart rate +/-25, 4 easy swim, 5-6 heart rate +/-30

100 easy

2 x 25 sprint (work in starts at meet)

75 easy after each

Total warm up yardage = 2,250

Some swimmers need more and some less based on your demands for the day and learning to read your body. Don't do less just because. Remember to simulate practices where you have great sprint swims at the end with 5,000 or more yards to warm up.....

Don't let more than 5-7 minutes elapse before starting test sets. This would also be the ideal time period between warm up and your events at meets.

Do the below set for all strokes except butterfly unless you or your swimmer is the exception. Most swimmers are too weak mechanically to complete this set fly. The fasterswimming work outs are designed to train fly at race pace mainly alternating upper and lower body while focusing on timing and mechanics.

Goals for set:

You need to be able to repeat your pace with your heart rate +/- 25 (this is for the national level swimmer, please adjust accordingly). Check your heart rate only a few times at the beginning of the set to establish speed. Your initial rest will be :05 seconds between swims developing a send off with the same amount of rest. Adjust send offs either faster or slower as needed. This should not be at a comfortable pace but on the challenging side with heart rate appropriate while holding pace thru set. Read set and start with a goal pace in mind.

Record your results (pace per 100) and use for setting send offs for the upcoming weeks.

4 x 100 start setting pace and establishing heart rate

8 x 25 this will be the easiest part, use to establish heart rate

6 x 50

4 x 100

2 x 200

recovery swim of 6 x 75 on +/- 1:15

set yardage = 2,150 for each stroke

Total yardage not including if you did the set fly = 8,700

GOOD LUCK !

SWIM | WEEK 18 (WORKOUT 2)

Day #87

Test set day number two/three. Same warm up as yesterday.

Warm up:

600 choice swim

6 x 100 choice 50 kick / 50 swim :10rest
then stretch based on time allowed no longer than 5 minutes

6 x 75 choice :10rest with heart rate about +/-20 at a minimum, check twice
adjust heart rate based on age and level of fitness
1-3 kick / swim / kick by 25, 4-6 swim / kick / swim by 25

6 x 50 choice swim – raise heart rate, check heart rate and then :15rest
1-3 heart rate +/-25, 4 easy swim, 5-6 heart rate +/-30

100 easy

2 x 25 sprint (work in starts at meet)

75 easy after each

Same goals as yesterday except we are establishing repeat 100 pace for kicking as well as sprinting. Do this for all four strokes.

(WEEK FIVE TAPER)
WEEK TWENTY-ONE FOCUS - SWIM

Week FIVE OF SEVEN WEEK TAPER practice requirements:

Please read your body and adjust the amount of sprinting and recovery swimming you need. If you have done all the work you are in shape!

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort
4. RP stands for race pace
5. VS stands for variable speed
6. inc stk cnt stands for incremental stroke count
7. FIP stands for fastest interval(send off) possible
8. _ up Tarzan _down easy stands for _ strokes up sprint Tarzan then _ strokes down easy freestyle, the underscore is for variable patterns of strokes
9. Remember to adjust all send offs and rest intervals based on your ability

This weeks focus:

Quality is the main focus while completing sets as written. If a swimmer needs more recovery to achieve the goals of each set then the swimmer and or coach need to communicate to each other. Monitor your heart rate to help you decide if you are resting enough or too much. You'll eventually be able to tell if you need more sprinting or recovery. We are now focusing on speed and power. If you have done all the work then you are in aerobic shape. Trust you have done enough and only you are the judge.

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Yardage varies each day.
4. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
5. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
6. Paddle sets.
7. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
8. Variable speed work.
9. Kicking and Race Race are specific each day during this phase of the season.

WEEK TWENTY-TWO FOCUS - DRYLAND

Dryland Training 22 – coinciding with Week 22 Faster Swimming Weekly Workouts

Weekly points:

- Dryland workouts should follow swim practice or be separated by 4+ hours
- Separate these workouts by at least one day
- End all sets at indicated times – if you don't reach a number goal don't worry, just keep working towards these goals
- Faster, short duration sets with added rest to enhance power and speed, maintain specific energy-system fitness, and facilitate recovery
- Take extra rest as needed within a set to maintain speed of movements
- If sore or tight for any reason, include extra stretching at the end of any workout

(WEEK SEVEN TAPER)

WEEK TWENTY-THREE FOCUS - SWIM

The first three workouts are the last three of the taper program. If you have questions please email me. Good Luck - Brad

Week SEVEN OF SEVEN WEEK TAPER practice requirements:

Please read your body and adjust the amount of sprinting and recovery swimming you need. If you have done all the work you are in shape!

1. Four fly kicks off each wall.
2. No breathing into or off of turns and the finish.
3. Percentage sign (%) means effort on set – 75% effort
4. RP stands for race pace
5. VS stands for variable speed
6. inc stk cnt stands for incremental stroke count
7. FIP stands for fastest interval(send off) possible
8. _ up Tarzan _down easy stands for _ strokes up sprint Tarzan then _ strokes down easy freestyle, the underscore is for variable patterns of strokes
9. Remember to adjust all send offs and rest intervals based on your ability

This weeks focus:

Quality is the main focus while completing sets as written. If a swimmer needs more recovery to achieve the goals of each set then the swimmer and or coach need to communicate to each other. Monitor your heart rate to help you decide if you are resting enough or too much. You'll eventually be able to tell if you need more sprinting or recovery. We are now focusing on speed and power. If you have done all the work then you are in aerobic shape. Trust you have done enough and only you are the judge. READ YOUR BODY THIS WEEK AND ALWAYS PRIME YOUR NERVOUS SYSTEM WITH RACE PACE, TARZAN AND VARIABLE SPEED WORK EVEN IF YOU HAVE A FULL RECOVERY DAY.

1. Stroke count sets.
2. Racing and overspeed work.
3. Yardage varies each day.
4. Alternate upper and lower body with in sets or by sets.
5. Turns, starts(relay) and finish work.
6. Paddle sets.
7. Varied Tarzan work specified by 23 week program in ebook.
8. Variable speed work.
9. Kicking and Race Race are specific each day during this phase of the season.
